Minister for Planning

The Honourable Matthew Guy MLC

Minister for Planning

NOT SO LONG AGO, DOCKLANDS WAS A FORGOTTEN PART OF OUR CITY WITH DISUSED RAIL AND PORT INFRASTRUCTURE, A FORGOTTEN PART OF MELBOURNE.

OVER THE PAST DECADE WE HAVE SEEN DOCKLANDS TRANSFORM FROM A DERELICT WASTELAND INTO THE THRIVING AREA WE KNOW TODAY.

In the 1990s the challenge was how to stimulate private sector investment in building a new part of Melbourne, finally connecting its central business district with the water. The State Government saw Docklands as a project to drive economic vitality back into the State.

And drive economic vitality it has. With more than 10 per cent still to be developed, Docklands has already attracted more than $8.5 billion worth of private investment to the area, and is expected to attract another $9 billion by 2025. Docklands is now home to more than 7,000 residents, 29,000 workers, and a destination for millions of visitors annually.

The past 12 months has seen Docklands experience the strongest development in its 12-year history with more than $2.4 billion worth of private development under construction across 16 projects including approximately 1,500 apartments.

Docklands has driven Melbourne’s competitive advantage over other Australian cities by being able to offer high-profile businesses large tracts of land for development right on the doorstep of the CBD, attracting more than 40 major corporations to Docklands. This, in-turn, is supporting increasing street-level activity and retail opportunities.

With the foundations now laid in Docklands, the next ten years of development and beyond is about delivering the infrastructure needed for the existing Docklands’ community.

This document outlines those key community infrastructure projects that will underpin Docklands’ continued success well into the future to create a place for people.

Lord Mayor’s Foreword

The Right Honourable Robert Doyle

Lord Mayor of Melbourne

IN THE PAST 10 YEARS DOCKLANDS HAS BECOME A THRIVING COMMUNITY, WITH INCREASING NUMBERS OF PEOPLE CHOOSING THE WATERFRONT FOR THEIR HOMES OR BUSINESSES. WHILE THE FIRST DECADE OF DOCKLANDS FOCUSED ON DEVELOPMENT AND BUILDINGS, THE SECOND DECADE WILL CENTRE AROUND THE PEOPLE OF DOCKLANDS.

We are pleased to bring Melbourne’s unique sense of community to Docklands through imaginative, well-designed places for this ever-changing precinct.

While our financial investment is significant, equally important is our commitment to meaningful engagement and partnerships in Docklands. A fine example is the recent release of the Docklands Public Realm Plan, a blueprint for the development of local public space.

The City of Melbourne has consistently advocated for community facilities and imaginative public spaces for the growing Docklands population. Docklands extends our city to the waterfront and, together with our partners, we’re working hard to blend its maritime character with improved spaces and new cultural attractions. In speaking with many in the community, we’ve identified several priorities: enhanced public spaces, including more outdoor seating and barbecues, smaller and sheltered spaces, waterside attractions and markets, a primary school and business networks.

Several exciting community projects are already being delivered in Docklands including the Library and Community Centre, and many pedestrian improvements. I encourage you to read this Plan and stay involved with all the exciting proposals planned for the Docklands community in the years to come.
INTRODUCTION

MELBOURNE DOCKLANDS - THE TRANSFORMATION

THE AREA NOW KNOWN AS DOCKLANDS WAS ONCE A HUNTING AND MEETING PLACE FOR LOCAL ABORIGINAL PEOPLE BEFORE IT BECAME ONE OF VICTORIA'S FIRST AND BUSIEST PORTS. THE LAST 10 YEARS HAS SEEN DOCKLANDS TRANSFORM FROM A DISUSED AND DERELICT PART OF THE CITY INTO A NEW HARBOURSIDE DESTINATION AND KEY DRAWCARD FOR BUSINESS, RESIDENTS AND VISITORS.

Following consultation with Melbourne’s community and key stakeholders, the State Government made a commitment to redevelop Docklands in 1995. Construction commenced in Docklands in 1997 with the building of a new stadium, which triggered the construction of other key infrastructure that would ultimately see Docklands become part of the central city. In 2000, construction of Docklands first homes started in Yarra’s Edge and NewQuay, making way for more than 7,000 residents who now call the area home.

While Docklands continues to transform into a modern business district, including 44 hectares of water – plays an increasingly important role in the growth of Melbourne as a global city helping secure it as the world’s most liveable city in 2017.

Docklands has an established reputation for leadership in environmentally sustainable commercial buildings, water-sensitive urban design and a substantial public art program.

Millions of visitors come to the area each year to see a game or event at Etihad Stadium, to share in the waterfront festivities, or to discover Docklands many and varied restaurants, cafes and bars and retail stores.

As Docklands continues to transform into a modern residential, commercial and visitor destination, this 190 hectare site – the same size as the original central business district, including 44 hectares of water – plays an increasingly important role in the growth of Melbourne as a global city helping secure it as the world’s most liveable city in 2017.

As Docklands entered its second decade of development, the time was right to engage with the broader community and key stakeholders to objectively examine all aspects of one Australia’s largest urban renewal projects.

In 2010, the City of Melbourne and Places Victoria (successor to VicUrban) embarked on a community engagement program to determine and test the community priorities for development during Docklands’ second decade.

The community’s input, together with in-depth planning and design studies, helped shape the shared vision for Docklands’ future, to create a place for people, a place where liveability is a priority, made possible by quality community infrastructure, welcoming open spaces, interactive street frontages and a vibrant waterfront destination for recreation and leisure.

Drawing together ideas from the community, lessons from the first decade and future sustainability measures, this document sets out clear directions and actions for Docklands over the next 10 years and beyond. It also signals a longer-term evolution for growth in the coming decades. As Docklands’ population increases (to an expected 60,000+ workers and 20,000 residents by 2025), joint planning together with neighbouring future growth areas, such as Fishermans Bend, E-Gate and North Melbourne, will help to consolidate Docklands’ future as a thriving community.

Docklands continues to evolve, this Docklands Community and Place Plan will be a key reference document, informing the Urban Design Framework and the Melbourne Planning Scheme. It will ensure the shared vision, key directions and community priorities are embedded in the future planning for Docklands and integrated with the Future Melbourne Community Plan, the Council Plan and Annual Budget, and Places Victoria Corporate Plan and Business Plan for Docklands.

This document outlines those projects that Places Victoria and the City of Melbourne are committed to delivering or partnering to deliver over the next 10 years and beyond, ensuring the delivery of priority community and place projects. Above all, this document aims to inspire partnerships with the community and attract new partnerships for key growth projects.
Since the first residents moved into Docklands in 2001, the population has grown from approximately 650 residents to more than 7,000 today. There are now over 5,400 dwellings built or under construction in Docklands. By 2025 the number of residents is expected to grow to more than 20,000, attracted by the different range of housing options and accessible community facilities that will be on offer.

Many of Australia’s leading corporations have set up head offices in Docklands, increasing the number of workers from 600 in 2002 to more than 29,000 today. By 2025, the number of workers travelling to Docklands each day is expected to increase to more than 60,000.

STATE GOVERNMENT AND PLACES VICTORIA

The State Government, under the Minister for Planning, is the responsible planning authority for developments in Docklands over 25,000 sqm. Places Victoria, on behalf of State Government, manages the delivery of development in Docklands.

Places Victoria (successor to VicUrban) is the Victorian Government’s land development agency, helping to meet the challenges of population growth and increased housing demand. Places Victoria facilitates large-scale mixed-use purposes – within established areas of housing demand. Places Victoria uses commercial skills to deliver housing choice to the market, increasingly in established areas, providing partnership opportunities for the private sector and encouraging the delivery of high quality, affordable and sustainable dwellings.

The name, Places Victoria, reflects the organisation’s emphasis on creating communities right throughout Victoria with a particular emphasis on urban renewal and best practice in urban and community design.

Its activities promote housing affordability and diversity and best practice in urban and community design.

The City of Melbourne supports diverse housing alternatives that meet the needs of Melbourne’s existing and future population, using commercially viable models of development.

In 2007, Docklands was officially integrated into the municipality of the City of Melbourne, becoming the City’s youngest neighbourhood.

In July 2010, the City of Melbourne became the responsible planning authority for developed areas in Docklands. The City of Melbourne will continue to acknowledge the important role that Docklands plays in the strategic development of the whole city through the Municipal Strategic Statement. The City of Melbourne focuses on generating long-term quality outcomes, promoting multi-centred, mixed-use compact city living. The City of Melbourne also focuses on providing well-designed public spaces and buildings that will thrive economically and improve the quality of life for residents and workers, while welcoming visitors.

The City of Melbourne supports diverse housing alternatives that meet the needs of Melbourne’s existing and future population, using commercially viable models of development.

On 29 June 2012, the Minister for Planning announced that the City of Melbourne would become the responsible planning authority for developments in Docklands below 25,000 sqm.

CITY OF MELBOURNE
Docklands Shared Vision

‘In 2020, Melbourne Docklands will be an integral part of a creative, well-connected 21st century city. It will continue to be a key driver of Melbourne’s economy and offer a unique urban waterfront, which reflects Melbourne’s elegance, diversity and culture.’

Delivering the Next Era of Development in Docklands

More than 3,700 people were involved in the preparation of the second decade of Docklands Draft Shared Vision for Docklands, which was launched in October 2010. More than 2,000 people shared their views and ideas about their priorities for the next 10 years of urban renewal at Docklands.

The Shared Vision that emerged after extensive engagement is supported by three key themes:

Theme 1: Capturing the Essence of Melbourne

Theme 2: Embracing Melbourne’s Waterfront

Theme 3: Creating a 21st Century City

Under each key theme is a series of strategic directions, which have been tested and supported by the community, culminating in an agreed set of community priorities and projects that will ensure Docklands continues to evolve as a place where people want to live, visit and do business.

The City of Melbourne, State Government and Places Victoria, together with the public and private sector, will invest in and realise a wide range of projects as outlined in this document.
STRATEGIC DIRECTIONS

The nine strategic directions outlined below (pages 24 to 45) are grouped under the three themes: Capturing the essence of Melbourne, Embracing Melbourne’s waterfront, and creating a 21st century city.

There is a high level of interconnectedness between each of the strategic directions, reinforcing the commitment to a holistic outcome for Docklands.

CAPTURING THE ESSENCE OF MELBOURNE
1. A place for community and everyday activities
2. Cultural vitality and creativity
3. Diverse, comfortable and active public spaces

EMBRACING MELBOURNE’S WATERFRONT
4. A waterfront heritage
5. Harbour destination
6. Connected Docklands

CREATING A 21ST CENTURY CITY
7. An eco Docklands
8. Thriving business community
9. Diverse residential community
Community feedback strongly reinforces the importance of community services and facilities, and the delivery of more comfortable, functional and intimate public spaces and amenities. Of greatest importance to the community are priorities that encourage community interaction and everyday activities, while ensuring Docklands develops its own diverse and rich community during consultation are:

The top six community priorities as identified by the community during consultation are:
- enhanced public spaces throughout Docklands, including Docklands Park, by providing more outdoor seating, shelters, drinking fountains, barbecues, picnic tables, rest areas and viewing platforms
- the Docklands Library and Community Centre
- a public primary school in or very near Docklands, co-located with appropriate community services
- business networks in key local centres in Docklands to promote local businesses and enterprises
- smaller, sheltered and more intimate public spaces that encourage interaction, and
- waterside attractions including seafood, farmers' and night markets, and cultural destinations and attractions.

The community’s input, together with in-depth planning and design studies, have helped shape a range of community and place projects to be delivered in Docklands over the next 10 to 15 years. These projects, outlined on pages 21 and 22, (and in more detail within the Docklands Community and Place Plan – A Guide at www.docklands.com), are those projects that Places Victoria and the City of Melbourne are committed to delivering or partnering to deliver over the next 10 years and beyond, ensuring the delivery of priority community and place projects.

Several exciting community projects, which have been tested and supported through this consultation process, are already being delivered in Docklands including the Docklands Community Garden which opened recently. In the next two years, the City of Melbourne and Places Victoria, together with the private and public sector, will begin delivering a raft of community infrastructure projects which will create a sense of place in Docklands including multi-purpose ball courts, the Library and Community Centre, a boating hub, and pedestrian improvements.

As these projects are realised, new projects will be identified and developed by Places Victoria, the City of Melbourne, businesses and the community in response to changing community needs.
