The Helping Out guide provides you with a comprehensive list of free and low cost services from more than 70 organisations in the central city and surrounding suburbs.

The agencies listed offer many types of support and services.

These include:
1. Homelessness accommodation (including rental assistance)
2. Services for women
3. Essential items and services (including food, clothes, showers, laundry, travel)
4. Support for addictions (including drugs, alcohol, gambling, needle exchange)
5. Health and wellbeing services (including hospitals, counselling, medical)
6. Legal and financial services
7. Assistance with employment services

The City of Melbourne updates this information each year to make sure the service details are as accurate as possible. Information included in this guide was correct at time of publication (June 2020).

How to use the Helping Out Guide
This guide is arranged into seven sections so that you can find an agency based on the support or service that you need. For example, if you need a hospital, you can find all hospitals listed under ‘Health and wellbeing services’.

Agencies are listed from A-Z in each section, including details such as address and operating hours.

For comprehensive details about each agency, please make contact via the phone number provided or visit its website.

Where only the phone number is listed, ring the agency to find out which of their centres you may need to visit. We have provided public transport routes to most places, except those located in the central city.

Please note: most accommodation facilities do not accept pets. Some agencies may try to find pet-friendly accommodation, but there are no guarantees.

Acknowledgment of Traditional Owners
The City of Melbourne respectfully acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the land, the Boon Wurrung and Woiwurrung (Wurundjeri) peoples of the Kulin Nation and pays respect to their Elders, past and present. For the Kulin Nation, Melbourne has always been an important meeting place for events of social, educational, sporting and cultural significance. Today we are proud to say that Melbourne is a significant gathering place for all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

Extreme weather information

Extreme weather events can happen anywhere, and at any time of the year, posing safety risks to people and animals. Being prepared for, and informed about, extreme weather conditions can reduce health emergencies that may be caused by these events.

VicEmergency\(^{12}\) is the primary website for fire and flood warnings and shows emergency incidents in Victoria on a Google map. City of Melbourne advises checking more than one source of emergency warnings.

Heat health alerts

The Victorian Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) has identified the temperature thresholds in Victoria where heat-related illnesses increase substantially. The mean threshold temperature for the Melbourne metropolitan region is 30°C.

What does the City of Melbourne do when a heat health alert has been issued?

We have a Heatwave Response Plan for people experiencing homelessness as well as a Heatwave support program with 11 participating agencies. This involves notifying service providers, agencies and established community organisations that interact with people who may be vulnerable to heat-related illnesses when a heat health alert has been issued. Ask your local community service about what kinds of extreme weather support are available.

With over 20 years of experience, the Inner Melbourne VET Cluster (IMVC) is at the forefront of developing best-practice programs and supports to serve the needs of at-risk youth and marginalised cohorts experiencing barriers to education, employment and community connection.
IMVC works alongside 5,600 annual referrals to support successful transitions and social inclusion of youth experiencing:
- mental health conditions and disabilities
- low self esteem/confidence
- educational disengagement
- family violence
- social and familial isolation
- cultural, identity and gender-related issues
- learning and access needs.

IMVC supports early school leavers on their employment journey, providing intensive pre-employment case management support to improve the work-readiness of youth and help them engage in work or study. We also deliver accredited and pre-accredited programs as a Learn Local provider and registered training organisation.
